Federal Aid Sought In Hunt For Killer

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Trumbull County Sheriff T. Herbert Thomas sought federal aid today in the hunt for Alfred Wilson, who police say killed three women.

Two steps were necessary to bring the Federal Bureau of Investigation into the case: A warrant charging first degree murder and an affidavit that he is believed to have crossed state lines to avoid prosecution.

Ike Enjoys 9 Hours Sleep

Several Important Decisions To Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower decided today to visit Panama City July 21-22 for a meeting with the presidents of other American republics. But he postponed scheduled July 7-10 talks with India's Prime Minister Nehru.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, counting on leaving the hospital late this week, enjoyed his "longest and best" sleep Sunday night since becoming ill. His spirits and morale were reported still "extremely high" today.

An 8 a. m. bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital said:

"The President had a most comfortable night. He slept almost continuously for nine hours.

"His condition continues to progress very satisfactorily. His spirits and morale are extremely high this morning."

Longest Hospital Sleep

The President's sleep of nine hours was his longest and best since he entered the hospital June 8, was word relayed to the press corps.

The recuperating President faces several decisions regarding his activities in the next month to six weeks.

All of those decisions are subordinate to the big one—whether to stay in the presidential race. If he has made that one already, he isn't saying.

Among other questions are:

1. Where to go to complete his convalescence. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen there probably will be an announcement on that Tuesday. Eisenhower's farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., has been mentioned. Doctors have estimated he will need another one to three weeks of recuperation after leaving Walter Reed Hospital.

May Meet Nehru

2. Whether to go ahead with the still scheduled July 7-10 visit with India's Prime Minister Nehru.

3. Whether to travel to Panama City, perhaps the latter part of next month, for a meeting with the presidents of other American republics. Eisenhower's illness forced postponement of a conference that was to have opened in Panama today. The question now is whether to reschedule the meeting.

Eisenhower may get advice from his doctors on all these matters sometime this week, as well as on the extent to which he will be able to step up his handling of government business after he leaves the hospital.

As for the big political question, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said some people who have talked with Eisenhower at the hospital have come away saying he "talks as if his plans were unchanged." Bridges added, however, that he didn't think the second-term question had come up directly.

Eisenhower was described as elated Sunday when physicians removed the last of his surgery stitches. It was the 16th day after he underwent the emergency operation for relief of partial blockage of the small intestine.

Twining Warns Russia U.S. Not Disarming

Says Worldwide Controls Must First Be Set Up

MOSCOW (AP) — Gen. Nathan Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff invited to Moscow to see the latest in Soviet aviation developments, has told his hosts the United States will not disarm until it is certain of worldwide controls. Twining, his aides and British and French air force chiefs were among foreign guests Sunday at the Soviet Aviation Day show in which the Russians unveiled three new types of fighter planes and a new jet-propeller transport.

It was the first time U.S. and British air chiefs witnessed the annual display.

Omitted Heavy Bombers

Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told the foreign guests and newsmen the show omitted new heavy jet bombers because "we wanted to emphasize defense, not offense."

The new models shown included (1) three delta-wing day interceptors assumed capable of supersonic speed, (2) two "advanced type" day fighters of a model called "Farmer" by U.S. airmen and first shown last year, (3) two improved all-weather fighters of the type labeled "Flashlight" by Western observers, also shown in the original version last year, and (4) a single assault-type, twin-engine turboprop transport which

Possible Loss Of Bases Seen Reason For Air Force Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today possible loss of overseas air bases by this country is an important reason for the Senate to approve a billion-dollar increase in Air Force funds.

"The truth is that our overseas bases are becoming less and less reliable to support our air-atomic power. . . . From Iceland to Okinawa, key strategic bases are now under political attack," Jackson said in a speech for Senate delivery.

Jackson contended that if the overseas bases are lost, more B52 long-range bombers capable of operating from this country will be needed to deter the increasing Soviet strategic air power.

The principal issue, as the Senate debated the big Defense Department appropriations bill, was whether—and how much—to increase the funds President Eisenhower asked for the Air Force.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, while cutting slightly some sections of Eisenhower's 15 1/2-billion-dollar Air Force budget, voted to add $1,160,000,000 for additional planes, bases and manpower.

The committee raised the bill's total to $34,938,000,000, a figure $35 millions above Eisenhower's requests and $1,300,000,000 above the amount voted by the House.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM) floor manager for the bill, said he is confident the Senate will approve the big Air Force increase by a margin of "6 to 10 votes."

Republicans hope to substitute a lesser 500-million-dollar increase proposed by Sen. Bridges (R-NH). Bridges said, however, that senatorial "resentment" at Secretary of Defense Wilson may result in a bigger increase.

He referred in a television interview

Truman Terms U.S. Presidency A 'Killing Job'

LONDON (AP) — Harry Truman today called the American presidency a "killing job" for one man and suggested the solution was "young men who've been trained for the job."

The former President refused to discuss President Eisenhower's illness, but in talking about the office of president said:

Conservatives Lose Ground In Iceland Election

Groups Seeking To Force U.S. Off Island Gain Additional Seats

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Iceland's Conservative Independence party, which wants to keep American troops on this strategic Atlantic island's NATO bases, lost ground in Sunday's parliamentary election.

The alliance of Progressives and Social Democrats, sponsors of the drive to oust U.S. forces from the big Keflavik air base and other installations, almost won a clear majority in the althing (Parliament), a preliminary count indicated today.

90% Vote

For the first time in the Althing's 1,000-year history more than 90 per cent of the 90,000 qualified voters cast ballots. The results appeared certain to be another coalition government, since neither the conservatives nor their opponents captured a clear majority of the Parliament's 52 seats.

The preliminary count gave the Conservatives, led by outgoing Premier Olafur Thors, 19 seats. In the old Althing they held 21. Communists Retain 7

The Progressive - Social Democrat coalition appeared to have taken 25 seats, a gain of 3. The Communists held on to 7—the same number they had before—and one place was undecided.

A total of 27 seats is required for formation of a government by a single party or combine of parties. The Conservatives and Progressives had governed together since 1953 but split when the Progressives last March pushed through the Althing a resolution asking withdrawal of American forces within 18 months. Three Drivers Cited After Road Mishaps

No one was injured in four area highway accidents involving seven automobiles during the weekend. The State Highway Patrol reported today. Three drivers were cited.

Dorothy Styflier, 22, of Damascus was cited for reckless operation after she lost control of her car, causing it to go off the road and into a ditch on Rt. 62, one mile north of Salem, at 3:15 p. m. Sunday. The auto received considerable damage.

Two cars received minor damages in a mishap on Rt. 62, three and one-half miles west of Salem, at 11:30 p. m., Sunday.

According to highway patrolmen, the driver of one car, Bruce Kundzman, 21, of RD 3, Salem, fell asleep causing his auto to crash into the rear of an auto operated by Emory Renden, 38 of Youngstown.

Kundzman was arrested for failure to stop within an assured clear distance.

Autos driven by Hazel Reed, 58, of Darlington, Pa., and Charles Kidder, 16, of Lisbon, collided on Rt. 164, four miles south of Lisbon, at 1:40 p. m. Sunday.

The mishap occurred when the Reed auto pulled out of a side road as Kidder drove over a hill crest. Both cars received minor damages.

James Prendergast, 35, of Minerva was cited for failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead after the vehicle he was driving smashed into the rear of another car driven by William R. Neal, 31, of Minerva on Rt. 30, one-half mile east of Minerva, at 12:15 p. m. Saturday.

Both cars received minor damages.

Lausche Says He Might Not Vote With Democrats If Elected Senator

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, has tossed a new element into the Ohio senatorial race.

The governor said Sunday he does not know whether he would vote with the Democrats to organize the U.S. Senate if he is elected to that body next November.

His statement raised the possibility that he might help the Republicans organize the Senate, and undermined one of the chief campaign agreements of his Republican opponent, Sen. George H. Bender.

Bender contends he is needed in the Senate to help give President Eisenhower Republican control there.

"I will cross that bridge when I come to it," Lausche said when asked how he would vote in the Senate reorganization.

He said he would attend to that if and when he is elected, and that his decision would depend "on the balance of strength in the Senate," and the identity of the President.

"I know," he told a reporter, "that measures I have advocated as governor frequently were op-

Lausche is here to attend the 48th annual Governor's Conference which began business session today.

In an interview, Democratic Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky said Democrats would be hard pressed to stave off Republican bids for his state's two Senate seats and Kentucky's 10 electoral votes if President Eisenhower runs again.

Chandler's estimate of Democratic chances in his state paralleled in some respects the analysis of Democratic Govs. Averell Harriman of New York, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan in their politically critical states. But Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee said he is certain Eisenhower won't carry his state again.

Democrats hope to retain their hair-line control of the Senate.

Guilford Lake Officials Report Seeing Tornado

Salem Escapes Full Fury Of Storms; Wheat Fields Ruined

Thousands of dollars in damages have been reported as a result of two severe rain storms that struck this district over the weekend. Salem was spared the full impact of each.

Glenn T. Harding, local office manager of the Ohio Edison Co., reported damages caused to power facilities were as severe as those caused by the May storm which ravaged the area.

He said repair crews called out at 7 p. m. Saturday are still working today. Nine trucks and about 50 men were pressed into repair service, he said.

Saturday night's storm lashed the area south of Salem — Guilford, Rogers, Lisbon, Elkton — all the way to the Pennsylvania state line. Harding said. Most of the damage to power facilities was caused by falling trees and limbs, and lightning striking wires, thus blowing out fuses in transformers. Sunday's storm caused heaviest damage in the north, around Petersburg.

Only isolated instances of power disruption remained to be cleared up today, Harding said. He estimated damages to power facilities at "many thousands of dollars."

Phone Lines Also Downed

Raymond J. Stiver, plant chief of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., said heaviest damage to telephone facilities was caused in the Lisbon-Rogers area. All available repair men were called out after Saturday's storm, he said. The crews had much of the damage repaired when Sunday's storm struck, undoing their work, he said.

A tornado was sighted over Guilford Lake at about 7 p. m. Saturday when the first storm lashed the area. Raymond Votaw, Guilford Lake park manager, and Roy Painter, lake patrolman, saw the funnel-shaped cloud swoop down to the lake and suck up a stream of water.

A rowboat containing two unidentified men capsized, Votaw said. The boat was in shallow water and the two men waded to shore.

A number of trees on the south side of the lake were uprooted by the storm Saturday. The north area of the park was undamaged, Votaw said.

Trees were blown down at Whinnery's Landing, and at the homes of Eldon Whinnery, James Starkey and others.

A large tree was blown against the side of the Guilford Grange Hall, damaging the roof. Sunday's storm caused little damage to Guilford.

In Columbiana an elm tree about two feet in diameter, near the lake in the west end of Firestone Park, was uprooted by the storm at 7 p. m. Saturday and carried down wires, which kept employees of the village electric department busy late into the night.

A large maple tree in front of the residence of Phillip Detwiler of 228 E. Park Ave., Columbiana, was broken off about five feet from the ground at the same time and stayed traffic until 9:30 p. m.

Although no phones were reported out of commission, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. employees cleared away the obstruction, which involved some wires.

In the Columbiana cemetery, one tree was uprooted and two others so badly damaged they will have to be removed, authorities say.

Power Is Disrupted

Electric power was disrupted in Lisbon by Saturday's storm, and much of the village's street lighting system still was not functioning Sunday night.

A number of trees were blown

British Airliner Falls, 26 Dead

Plane Crashes Into Northern Nigeria

LAGOS Nigeria (AP)—A four-engine British airliner crashed and burst into flames in northern Nigeria Sunday night, kinning at least 26 persons.

The plane steward, L. A. Ward of Reading, England, was reported missing. Three of the 18 known survivors were said to be critically injured.

The known dead included stewardess Kay Buckley, 11 women passengers and 2 children.

The passenger list was not immediately available but it was believed no Americans were aboard. The British Overseas Airways Argonaut, en route from Lagos to London via Tripoli, Libya, had just taken off from Kano, 700 miles northeast of Lagos. It reportedly flew into storm clouds, lost height and crashed into the trees, bursting into flames.

Aboard the aircraft were 38 passengers and a crew of seven. The survivors included the plane captain, Capt. H. V. Tomlinson, 36, a Royal Air Force veteran, and four other crewmen.

An emergency squad from Kano airport rescued most of the surviving passengers.

Concedes Party Looked Silly Thinking Stalin Was Infallible

American Communist Party Admits Series Of Damaging Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leadership of the American Communist party has confessed to a series of damaging mistakes and bad, bad guesses, besides conceding the party looked silly in thinking Stalin was infallible.

These mistakes include a dumb reliance on Karl Marx without looking at facts, the party's support in forming the Progressive party in 1948, and repeated predictions of war and depression.

Some results: The party has lost heavily in membership and in influence in politics and organized labor; it hasn't been able to win any "mass" support; and it has isolated itself from the main stream of American life.

The admissions came from Eugene Dennis, the party's real boss, and Max Weiss, its educational director, in reports to the Central Committee. Those reports have been printed in pamphlet form.

The reports were made after Russian Communist party boss Khrushchev had listed the mistakes and crimes he said were committed under Stalin.

Dennis said the party had neglected work in the big unions; had backed "rywaa mundeit" had backed away from united did not appreciate until a couple fronts, which it is now seeking; of years ago the new world role of the Asians; had erred in making membership qualifications too tight; was wrong in lumping the "Eisenhower forces" and McCarthyism together; and was obviously way off in predicting imminent wars and depressions ever since 1945.

How did all this happen? Dennis blamed some of it on pressure and prosecution by the government. But he said, in effect, the party was so eager to lead the masses it forgot to notice the masses were going the other way.

But Weiss said the Communists will have to "rediscover America" and begin to study its "realities" and struggles. Taking his cue from Khrushchev's revelations about the extent of one-man rule in Russia, Weiss said:

"The general membership of the American Communist party has never been able to have a say in the big decisions, that these were handed down from the top. The members ought to be able to discuss problems too, he said.

The question not answered by the Dennis-Weiss statements was why they suddenly thought the members ought to be consulted a little only after Khrushchev said collective leadership was better than one-man rule.

As to the Progressive party, set up in 1948 with Henry Wallace as its presidential candidate, Dennis said:

"I believe it was erroneous and harmful to support the formation of the Progressive party as a third party." He said he had to assume a lot of the blame for this himself.

But then, he said, the party made another mistake in thinking, after the 1948 elections, that the Progressive party still had a future.

The Communists have had their eye on a third party—a united front or labor-farm party, steered by them but not under their name—ever since 1924 when they tried and failed.

Stalin suggested it for this country in 1928. Earl Browder wanted it when he was party boss in 1935. And now Dennis in his report hints at that kind of party in the future but not right away.

Weiss blamed blind reliance on Marx's "theory of economic crisis" for the wrong guesses about depressions between 1945 and 1954. "Everything was very simple," he said, if you followed Marx.

But the trouble, he said, was in the difference between the present world and the 19th century world of Marx. Conditions have changed and facts too, he said. And Marx was making predictions based on 19th century facts.

"We must," Weiss said, "do the same thing Marx did in his day. We must study the facts." Up-to-date ones, that is.

Nasser Elected Egypt's President

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser is the choice of more than 90 per cent of Egypt's voters to be the nation's first elected President.

The military dictator who masterminded King Farouk's overthrow was the only candidate in the voting Saturday. Egyptians also ratified a new constitution by a thumping 97.7 per cent vote, the Interior Ministry announced.

The ministry said about 94 per cent of the 5,720,000 registered voters took part in the country's first secret ballot election, and 99.7 per cent voted for Nasser. The only alternative was to vote against him.

'My War With the Mob'

By VICTOR RIESEL

How Racketeers First Moved In On Labor

(First of a series of 6 articles)

Only America has a racketeering labor underworld.

This mob has corroded unions, politics and sections of the business world as deeply as the acid hurled at me burned in to my eyes.

It has shot down hundreds of labor officials in the past decade. It has looted union welfare funds of millions of dollars. It has bombed the homes of more than 50 unionists. It has broken the skulls and spirit of thousands of rank-and-file dues-payers.

It has sold strong arm squads to unions and employers—squads numbering as high as 500-man raiding parties which have beaten police officers and ripped apart stores and factories. It has even beaten women.

It has forced more than 100 honest union leaders to live under daily bodyguard. Most prominent of these are Walter Reuther and his brother and top aide, Victor, who were shot-gunned by the mob. When it blinded me, the mob set the world agast. President Eisenhower was outraged. He decided to move personally.

THE PRESIDENT of the United States is but one of America's aroused citizens. Upwards of 60,000 persons wrote to me since I was attacked. Nearly 1,000 offered their eyes to help me see. (Although my doctors and I know these kindly offers are in vain—there is no possibility of corneal grafting.)

Thousands more offered other forms of assistance.

I report this as a reflection of the seething but hitherto uncrystallized hatred of the mob by the angered American people who finally are ready to move against the organized crime combine.

They can't restore my sight but they can restore decency to their communities. If the people succeed, they will unshackle themselves of the mob which has ridden the backs of workingmen and their employers for 75 years.

The mob? Just what is it, any way?

INSIDE LABOR, the mob is a crime cartel. It is a combination of specialists who have graduated beyond old-fashioned crime—outmoded bootlegging, smuggling, gambling, prostitution, white slavery and even narcotics. It has moved in and taken over unions across the country, just as the old-time Capone mob moved in and took over theaters, night clubs, restaurants and other types of businesses.

This labor mob loves the "respectability" that comes with union positions. They are enthralled by the huge treasures and the use of other people's money as though it were their own. They aim for more than the billions of dollars in the unions' treasures. Their greedy eyes are also on the easy money they can make by cutting in on the unions' stock market portfolios, real estate and other investments.

The mob is made up of a series of local barons. They deal in favors, which they call "contracts." They throw up picket lines and they remove picket lines on short order.

THEY PRESSURE other union officials into making easy wage contracts and they frighten employers into yielding to their own union friends. For each favor there is cash-on-the-line or an obligation which the other fellow must fulfill on demand at a later date.

The mob uses the unions for its businesses. To stay in these businesses, it must stay in office. To stay in office, it must terrorize the opposition. For such terror you need muscle. The mob has it—in abundance.

It has had the muscle and the rackets for 75 years—but the skillfully organized thievery of today dates back to the 1920's—to the days when Lepke and Gurrah and another powerful but little known fellow by the name of "Curley" (tougher even than Lepke) took orders from a polished financial genius with a flair for organization—a man named Arnold Rothstein.

Rothstein was a methodical business expert. He organized and rantionalized crime as an efficient and unified industry, just as the legitimate men of big business such as the Rockefellers, Fricks and Morgans tried to unify the oil, steel and railroad industries.

ROTHSTEIN WAS a man of varied criminal tastes. He bribed the Chicago White Sox to throw the 1919 World Series to the Cincinnati Reds. He controlled gambling, prostitution and narcotics in New York. His fame, his money and his "troops" soon spread across the nation. Before long, he was the underworld's chief financier.

He bought judges as casually as you or I buy a suit or a dress. He owned hotels, theaters and night clubs, to name just a few enterprises. Soon the labor field intruded this smooth-as-silk crime tycoon.

When strongarm men were hired by unions or employers in a strike—although neither side knew it—the muscle men on both ends, who waited in special depots for the word to rush to the attack, all were in Rothstein's pay.

For example, back in 1926 the Communists seized the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and looted a million dollars in special funds from the union's treasury. The comrades used this money to finance a strike that same year.

The Communists were the first to bring big-time hoods into the labor field. In the fur industry, they hired a gang of Greek mobsters known as the "Black Gloves" to keep people in line.

IN THE 1926 STRIKE in the ladies' garment industry, they hired the "Little Augie" gang of Brooklyn to smash shops and employers. The businessmen then retaliated by retaining Legs Diamond. Both hoods were account executives, in charge of muscle, for Arnold Rothstein.

Rothstein was killed in New York's Park Central Hotel in November 1928. Legs Diamond was shot down on the streets. Little Augie went the way of all gangster flesh. But two of Rothstein's other lieutenants survived—for a while. They were Louis "Lepke" Buchalter and his partner, Gurrah Shapiro.

Lepke was the loving nickname for unlovely Louis. And Gurrah came from the gutteral noises Shapiro would make when he shouted at pushcart peddlers who wouldn't pay him a buck a piece protection—"Gurrah here."

By the mid-thirties, these two men moved into enough businesses and unions to take home 2 million dollars a year before taxes—and who would dare ask them for taxes! After all, they also owned a business called Murder, Inc.

THEY INVADDED the flower,

TRUMANS IN ENGLAND—Continuing their European tour, former President Harry S. Truman and his wife, Bess, arrive at Liverpool Street station in London, after journeying from Holland. During their stay in England, Mr. Truman will receive an honorary degree from Oxford University and dine with Sir Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Eden.

truck, bread and apparel industries, among others. They cut up the field with Lucky Luciano, who once disciplined the Mafia by knocking off 40 underworld insurers in 36 hours, according to what Murder Inc.'s Abe Reles and other informants told the Brooklyn district attorney at that time.

They operated mostly through their terrorization of truck drivers—who were easily intimidated because they could be picked off alone on the streets and highways. Slowly they moved across the land, tying up with the Capone mob, the Purple Gang in Detroit and on to the hoods on the west coast.

In the mid-thirties Tom Dewey swooped down on Lepke and Gurrah. He made things so hot for the mob that Lepke went into hiding. Finally the mob could no longer jeopardize its huge "take." It warned Lepke to give himself up. Lepke did—he died for murder in the hot seat at Sing Sing.

But, as in the days of Rothstein, the mob left many lieutenants. Some of them paid their debt to society and became influential, "respectable" businessmen in their communities. Others became the modern manicured mob—the kind I've been fighting since I was a kid on the streets of the East Side of New York. (Copyright 1956, The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Is It Court House Or Courthouse?

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Is it court house or courthouse?

The words "St. Louis County Court House" are cut deep in stone over the governmental building in suburban Clayton. It wasn't questioned for six years. Then the Metropolitan St. Louis Civic Register, an annual guide published recently, said, "It's courthouse, not court house," and cited a dictionary, the county charter and counselor's office as proof.

Defense arguments say there's a precedent for the two-word usage at the "U. S. Court House" downtown. And architects of the six-year-old building say the two-word style looks better.

Mr. Knowledge

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A London author writing a play about Jesus Christ recently wanted to find out on what day of the week the Savior had been born.

He turned for help to Hugo Dunn-Meynell, known as Britain's "Mr. Knowledge."

Dunn-Meynell is managing director of an unusual firm called "Finders Limited," which for a fee will ferret out information for a client or perform any odd job so long "as it is legal and moral."

He and his 25 assistants pored over hundreds of volumes of biblical scholarship before coming up with this answer:

"Jesus probably was born either at Wednesday or Thursday midnight, but we can't go beyond that. Internal evidence within the Bible itself makes it unlikely he could have been born on any other day of the week."

"This has been the most interesting of the queries that pour into his firm at the rate of about 200 a week, but there have been many strange ones."

An American, for example, wrote and asked that a hotel bed he had slept in during a stay in London be sent to him.

"It was extremely comfortable," he explained. Finders Limited went to the hotel, bought the bed, and shipped it over.

Dunn-Meynell, who is 30, slender and wears a ginger goatee, served in the royal navy and studied law before launching his unique career. It has taken him to most parts of the world, and he is now making a 13,000-mile trip around America.

His organization is geared for emergencies. Once it had to charter a car and race 35 miles to deliver a pair of forgotten false teeth to a British lady executive in time for her to make a speech to her stockholders.

It takes in stride weird requests to locate such items as an elephant's foot, a prerevolutionary recording of the old Russian national anthem, or a nulla-nulla, which is an Australian throwing stick.

Once a horrified gentleman phoned for aid in a terrible personal dilemma. In sending some flowers he had gotten the cards mixed. The one he had sent to a funeral read "many happy returns of the day." The one he had sent to his lady friend read "with deepest sympathy." Finders Limited saved the day for him by dispatching an agent to the cemetery who changed the card before the mourners arrived.

"Our clients keep us on our toes," said Dunn-Meynell. "We never know what we'll be asked to do next."

Not long ago he had a hurry-up call from the Family Planning Assn. of Great Britain for toads, which are used in pregnancy tests.

He put an ad in "The Times" reading "300 male toads urgently needed"—and they flooded in from all parts of the English countryside.

His fees range from about 65 cents for a simple request for information up to $500 to make a market study of, say, the commercial possibilities of chocolate flavored toothpaste in Saudi Arabia.

Harriman's Wealth

By DAVID LAWRENCE

'Curse Of Riches' Less Dangerous In Politics

If Gov. Averell Harriman of New York is nominated on the Democratic ticket, he will be the wealthiest man who ever ran for the presidency. Estimates of his fortune vary from 80 million to 100 million dollars and some people in the financial world say this is on the low side.

When Mr. Harriman's father — E. H. Harriman, the railroad king — died about forty years ago, he left around 80 million dollars to his four children. So, if the New York governor inherited 20 million dollars when he was about 25 years old and hasn't increased that sum four or five times by careful investment since, he is an exception to the rule. The New York governor told a "Meet the Press" audience the other day on NBC television that he would gladly reveal his assets if it was considered desirable to have all candidates make such a disclosure.

The possession of such immense wealth may not be a handicap at all to Gov. Harriman — in fact, it may prove to his advantage. The average man in the electorate wants to see integrity and honesty in public office and, if it is known that a public official has a lot of money of his own, the immediate assumption is that he is above corruption.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, after he left the White House, wrote an article for "Outlook" magazine, of which he was contributing editor, saying that anyone who took a responsible position in government should have at least $100,000 in investments so that the income from it would be adequate irrespective of whether or not he was in public office.

The theory was that a man who had an independent income could afford to be independent of wrong influences that might arise to try to sway his judgment in a governmental office. Those were the days when an income from $100,000 at six per cent was a lot of income so far as purchasing power went.

The normal prejudices in the electorate would be against a man of wealth if it be assumed that he has a viewpoint hostile to the man of low income. There aren't many men in America today who have such a viewpoint, though the use of the argument in class warfare remains because it has been found to be vote-getting demagoguery.

Gov. Harriman, on the other hand has made it a point to criticize big business and powerful economic groups. He is known as more "radical" than Adlai Stevenson.

THE NEW YORK governor — whether because of a consciousness of wealth in a political sense or because he thought it was good politics in seeking the Democratic nomination — has painstakingly striven for the support of the labor unions.

Having been an investment banker in Wall Street, Mr. Harriman says he has been in a position to know the weaknesses of his former brethren in finance. This may not be important now but, if a depression overtakes the country, presumably another "New Deal" or "New Vision," as Gov. Harriman calls it, might encompass some more reforms in the banking and business world.

What seems strange about Averell Harriman's strategy in assailing the "moderation" of Adlai Stevenson is that the New York governor or his advisers assume this is a period in which radicalism has a better chance than moderation.

It might be the case in the pre-convention battle inside a party which has a record like the Democratic party in recent years but, once the nomination is made, if Gov. Harriman is successful in winning it, he will probably find himself trying to woo the conservative or what has been called the "middle class" vote in the electorate.

THE LARGE NUMBER of home-owning citizens and voters in the middle brackets has made this present era of prosperity one of conservatism, though perhaps "moderation" is the more euphemistic word to use for those who don't like "conservatism."

The 1955 official figures of the Federal Reserve Board show there were 33.3 million families with incomes of $3,000 a year or over. Of these, there are 7.4 million families with incomes between $3,000 and $4,000 a year.

Taking two votes to a family, there is a bloc of 66 million votes who are "rich" if the standards of other decades are considered. It is a little hard to see, therefore, where radicalism can make its appeal. It might really alienate some of the support in that rather large segment of "middle class" voters.

SO IT COULD BE that, if Gov. Harriman is the Democratic nominee, his supporters will be found pointing to his large fortune with the argument that such a man would not sign legislation or take any action that would be inimical to the property-owning citizens of the country and that hence he might be regarded as a promoter rather than a destroyer of prosperity.

The "curse of riches" would seem to be less dangerous in politics today than it ever was. There are plenty of millionaires in the Democratic party in Congress. Sen. Taft, Herbert Hoover, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt were all relatively rich men. Mr. Hoover gave most of his salary back to the Treasury, and Gov. Harriman, if nominated and elected, might do the same.

In Pursuit Of Carrots

It ever works at all.

My sunset-slope friends insist that disenchantment and bitterness always will lie ahead for those who rely on their ability to overtake a carrot that always is going to be just beyond their reach.

They say the first necessity is to equip oneself with motives that are timeless and changeless, then nothing can happen to them. Then there are no problems of middle age. Even old age becomes manageable.

We must take their word for it, in the absence of any personal experience with middle age. Some people just do not have any middle age. They jump directly from the sophomore, or larva, stage into old age, never making the long saunter down the sunset slope.

Larva, come back to me!

What do you do when you know for sure you aren't going to go any further. What has a guy got left?

"Substitute 'gal' for 'guy' and the problem has been stated. What do you do when the carrot on the stick you began to pursue away back there when all things seemed possible is no longer there?

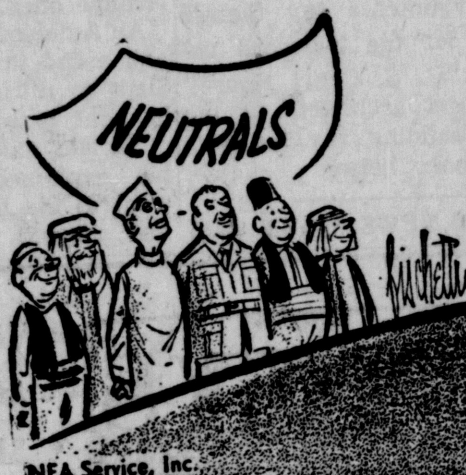

Even though you may have learned long before the carrot disappeared that it was only the bait on an apparatus to keep you going, it continued to be important. It was the indispensable incentive everybody needs — the all-important sense of purpose without which all effort becomes a deadly grind.

We cannot agree with Boyle, by the way, that progress or lack of progress in a career has much to do with the sense of purpose that keeps men and women going. All of us have known people going like a house afire in what they had set out to do yet who wondered why they should continue to knock themselves out to prove something that had ceased to seem worth proving.

Boyle thinks a philanthropic foundation should set aside some money to study the problem, which could be a spoof at the modern credo that money can buy a solution to any problem, if there's enough money.

Money will be of no use here. The only solution that ever will be found for the problem of futility in middle age will have to be looked for in a sense of purpose built inside the individual, instead of being a carrot on a stick — a baited apparatus so crude it's wanted

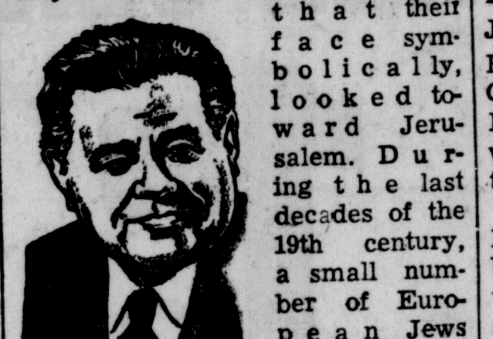

Another Kremlin Dove

State Of Israel

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

From 70 AD until 1897, Palestine was accepted by Jews as their lost homeland. When they prayed, they turned toward Palestine, so that their faces symbolically looked toward Jerusalem. During the last decades of the 19th century, a small number of European Jews went to Palestine as colonists to work the land, to grow oranges and olives and grapes.

They either went to the colonies founded by the Chovevei Zion or those founded by Baron de Rothschild. Other Jews migrated to Jerusalem to weep at the Wailing Wall and to die and to be buried in sacred soil.

Then appeared Theodor Herzl, a Viennese journalist who had attended the Dreyfus Trial in Paris. Mr. Herzl was not a traditionally religious Jew; his outlook was political rather than emotional.

HE WROTE a book entitled "The Jewish State." Mr. Herzl was a product of the intense nationalistic movements which flourished throughout Europe from about 1848 to World War I. He applied the concept of nationalism to the European Jewish problem which was at that time essentially religious.

At any rate, when in 1897, he called a Congress of Jews in Basel, Switzerland, to found the Zionist movement with the object of establishing a Jewish state in Palestine, the response was favorable. A large and important delegation attended the Basel Congress from the United States.

Palestine was then Turkish territory which it remained until after World War I when it became a ward of the League of Nations and was mandated to Great Britain.

BY THIS TIME, the leader of the Zionist movement was a British chemist, Chaim Weizmann, who had invented TNT and given it to the Allies without personal compensation, asking only that Palestine be acknowledged as a Jewish homeland. As a result, the Balfour Declaration was issued by Great Britain in 1917 recognizing Palestine as a Jewish homeland without imperiling the rights of the Arabs who dwelt there.

Out of these beginnings came Israel, a state recognized by the United Nations in 1949. Weizmann was the first president of Israel and David Ben-Gurion, head of the Histadruth, a labor organization, became its prime minister.

Israel faced many problems, the most trying of which is undoubtedly that in the long period from 70 AD to 1948, the people whom Abraham moved into the land of Canaan from Ur of Chaldees, proliferated, settled in many countries and became different not only culturally but physically.

THE JEWS from Nazi Germany who took refuge in Israel were very different physically and culturally from those who came from Yemen or Morocco or the Balashas from Africa or the B'nai Israel from the Malabar coast of India. Nevertheless, all these peoples and those from Russia, Poland, Galicia, Rumania and anywhere else are Jews.

Also, religiously, many changes have occurred. Even here in the United States there are four sects of Jews, Hassidim, Orthodox, Conservative and Reformed and there are Jews who do not have any religious affiliations.

This is complicated manifested in Israel where, for instance, the Sephardim look down their noses at the Ashkenazim, the difference essentially being between those who migrated to Mediterranean countries and particularly Spain and those who moved into Eastern Europe probably through Germany into Poland and fanning out from there.

SO BEN-GURION, as prime minister, has not had an easy time, especially as he has always been beset by Arab opposition, arising not only because of the dispossessing of part of the Arab population of Palestine, as is often said, but even more because of a clash of cultures between Asiatic Arabs and European Jews.

Moshe Sharett, as minister for foreign affairs, has generally taken the view that these complex problems will not be solved by war but by time. Ben-Gurion has been less patient. This has been complicated by the intervention of Soviet Russia in the Near Eastern situation.

SOVIET RUSSIA supports the Arabs, using Nasser of Egypt as the agent of its policy. The quid pro quo has been the supply of war material and trainers and experts to Egypt. In return, Nasser has conducted a vast and bitter anti-American and anti-British propaganda throughout the Arab world.

Moshe Sharett, minister for foreign affairs, has been embarrassed by the American policy of selling arms to Saudi Arabia and refusing to sell to Israel. Ben-Gurion has let Sharett go. This can mean a reorientation of attitude toward the United States.

Back To Truman?

WASHINGTON

If President Eisenhower bows out of the presidential race because of illness the most surprised man in Washington will be the Democratic strategists who have been saying it is the President's "obligation" to do just that.

It is now revealed here that, at the very time last week that Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler was saying publicly to newsmen that the sick President had to "reappraise" his re-election decision, he was privately telling his party's convention arrangements committee to accept the fact that Mr. Eisenhower will be the Republican nominee.

As a result, the Democratic committee has mapped a "television-age" convention program in which ex-President Harry S. Truman and ex-first lady Eleanor Roosevelt will have the job of selling, within decency's limit, the thought that a vote for a sick Eisenhower may be a vote to make Richard Nixon president by death and succession.

The tentative plan is to have Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman address the convention after it has nominated a presidential candidate, and before the nomination of a vice president. Their assigned theme will be the importance of the vice presidency in this era of the cold war and the hydrogen bomb.

Both speakers are expected to re-emphasize the "single heart beat" that separates the vice president from the White House on the assumption that any political talk of hearts must remind listeners again that Mr. Eisenhower's faltered last September.

To do it the "right" way, the strategists would have neither of the speakers refer directly to either Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Nixon. Mrs. Roosevelt, they are confident, would accept that subtle approach. Of the notoriously blunt Mr. Truman they're not so sure. But they are not worried.

"The people," said one Democrat, "are used to hearing Harry Truman say what he thinks. He is the one speaker who probably could get away with saying flatly that Mr. Eisenhower is sick and Mr. Nixon no good."

Not without possibility in the minds of some strategists is that the twin speeches might be so effective, particularly over television, that the convention might be stampeded into nominating either Mr. Truman, or Mrs. Roosevelt, for vice president. Either, it is calculated here, would add some punch in a year when the Eisenhower personality has to be overcome and each, it is believed, would be "willing."

The ever-more-important problem of the whole nation sitting in on the convention via TV has started the Democrats scurrying on another new project — a full-length movie dramatizing the party's past. The film would be shown simultaneously on a screen in the convention hall and on the TV sets of the country.

Behind that plan is the realization that something new has to be added to keep a nationwide audience watching for five afternoons and evenings of a convention program. The period of actual nominating and voting is recognized as top audience entertainment, as would be a party-dividing floor fight which Democrats hope to avoid. But the old-style and time-consuming oratorical eulogies of the party are dull stuff that the movie, if it can be put together in time, could well replace.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Senatorial Wrist-Slap

A Senate subcommittee, to investigate the causes of small-city delinquency, recently came around to some finger pointing and reached conclusions that mom and pop had reached long ago. It isn't a very courageous report and it modifies it by giving Hollywood some nice pats on the back. But the senators screw up their courage enough to declare in plain words that "overly brutal, violent or sadistic movies are potential trigger mechanisms" to persuade the moppets that it is okay for even their heroes to use the fight tactics of gangsters.

They agree with parents that it is almost impossible to teach the kids gallantry and a sense of decency when almost from cradle days they see the heroes of Hollywood and TV slugging and socking an opponent long after he is null and void.

RARELY DOES the movie or TV picture show an encounter between hero and villain in which the hero fails to do a sadistic mopping up, even when the baddie has obviously gone to the cleaners.

The "nice guy" never lets one wallop do what two dozen can accomplish. Broken bottles, table-legs, iron furniture and superfluous hay-makers are shown as "cricket." And a revolver, sawed-off shotgun and running broad jump onto a prostrate loser are depicted to the boys and girls as all within the code of clean sportsmanship.

How can a moppet grow up with any feeling that he doesn't want to hurt anybody? On the movie or TV screen today a director would portray Lochinvar using a heavily-shod dray horse to jump on his opponents' chest, and all King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table pulling the table apart for weapons to beat adversaries to a pulp.

Few producers would hesitate to show David, following up his slingshot attack on Goliath, by kicking him in the face, stomping on his head and doing a dance on his prostrate body as an encore.

(We expect any day to see a TV or Hollywood version of Romeo and Juliet in which Romeo and the Capulets use switchblade knives, the below-the-belt punch and the sharp edge of a broken lamp, probably working in a mugging scene for good measure.)

WHAT DO YOU THINK the senators recommended to save the kiddies? You'll never guess. . . . "Consultations between behavior experts, code agencies and producers!"

Ya mean the tycoons supplying America with its entertainment don't know much about behavior, and that the code framers are in the dark on little things like fair fights?

Don't go yet; the senators say no firm steps are called for and that "the picture industry is doing a splendid job in regulating itself."!! No wonder mom and pop have taken to the hills screaming.

A DIRECTOR OF Yale's Summer School for Alcoholic Studies (and we didn't know that summer is the best time for it) says fights between groups studying the drinking problems can be more demoralizing to society than the drinkers. It's just possible all such studies reach a point where one group should say to the other, "Let's take time out and hoist a few snifters."

Supermarkets are selling drugs, lamps, furniture, jewelry and hardware. It will be just our luck to buy a can of tomatoes and get stuck behind three or four women with a load of medicines, costume jewelry, house furnishings, hamburger and strawberries.

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are separating. . . . Splitting their success one for two, as it were. While the customers have been laughing, the boys themselves haven't been enjoying their act. They got along beautifully when the going was tough, but, as so often happens, suffered visibly from the pangs of success.

At Least 20 Die In Ohio Mishaps

Bride, 3 In Plane Are Among Victims

By The Associated Press

An automobile collision that killed a honeymooning bride on her wedding day... the crash of a small plane in which three men died... an ill-fated attempt to rescue a car caught in a flash flood...

These were some of the accidents that brought death to at least 20 persons in Ohio over the weekend. The toll was compiled in an Associated Press survey that ran from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday. Of the total, nine died in traffic mishaps and six drowned.

Perhaps the most tragic highway death was that of the 44-year-old Walbridge school teacher whose car overturned on the Ohio Turnpike as she and her 66-year-old husband began their honeymoon.

In the plane crash, a 46-year-old Rocky River resident—on a cross-country flight to earn his pilot's license—his instructor and a physician passenger all were killed when the craft apparently headed for an emergency landing and fell into a marsh in Sandusky Bay near Cedar Point.

A flash flood surged through the Mahoning County community of Campbell at the height of a thunderstorm, and two local men drowned trying to rescue the parked car belonging to one of them. They were swept under the car as it moved down an incline, caught in the flood waters.

The list of fatalities:
Saturday:

Lawrence Toulloss, 42, Newark, when his car overturned on a curve of Ohio 13 about 1½ miles south of Mount Vernon.

Dr. Wade R. Portz, 63, drowned near his Congress Lake home (Stark County) after falling out of a fishing boat.

Reeser Overton, 15, Columbus, drowned in the Scioto River near Circleville when he slipped from a muddy bank while fishing.

Steve Paulin, 38, and Boris Moissoff, 25, both of Campbell, drowned in flood waters surging through that Mahoning County town when they tried to rescue Paulin's car which was swept down a flooded street.

Elmer T. Henson, 24, Berea, electrocuted while helping a friend pump out a flooded basement with an electric motor.

Mrs. Belle York, 40, Blanchester, in a two-car collision on Ohio 28 just west of the Warren, Clinton County line.

Daniel Horn Jr., 51, Shade, Ky., struck by a truck in Hamilton, Ohio.

Harold Levon Hall, 14, Rt. 2, Lexington (Richland County), drowned after going for a swim in a farm pond eight miles southeast of Mount Gilead.

Sunday:

George M. Tow, 46, Rocky River, Dr. C. K. Neher, 51, Lakewood, and Bernard Fiering, 31, North Olmsted, when their light plane plunged into Sandusky Bay in Lake Erie.

The Rev. E. P. Conrad, 77, Middlepoint, of injuries received Saturday in a two-car collision at the intersection of U.S. 127 and Ohio 700, six miles south of Van Wert.

Mrs. Mary Strasser, 70, of near New Bloomington (Marion County) in a two-car collision six miles southeast of Marion.

Owen Luther Baker, 19, Rt. 1, Oregonia (Warren County), drowned in the Little Miami River near Lebanon after going for a swim.

Airman 2-c Mark C. Hymes, 19, Bethesda, Md., when the auto he was driving collided with a truck-trailer on U.S. 40 about 8.4 miles west of Zanesville.

David Kinnan, 20, Roseville, when the auto he was driving collided with a truck on Ohio 77 about 4½ miles south of Zanesville.

Mrs. Marjorie Wagoner, 44, Walbridge, when her auto collided with another car on the Ohio Turnpike, east of the Lorain - Elyria interchange, and rolled over. The accident occurred on her wedding day.

John H. Chambers, 50, Eastlake, in a two-car head-on collision on Ohio 3 near Weymouth (Medina County).

Judy Jerino, 16, Niles, struck by lightning while running through a lawn to a car on Ohio 46 at Farmer Jim's Lake, three miles south of Cortland (Trumbull County).

Tucker-Nocera Nuptials Held In Sebring St. Ann Church

An altar setting of vases filled with white carnations, snapdragons, delphinium, orange blossoms and pastel pink roses formed the background for the marriage of Miss Dolores Ann Tucker and Joseph Anthony Nocera Saturday morning during a nuptial mass in the Sebring St. Ann Catholic Church.

Rev. Ferris J. Petros officiated during the double ring ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen V. Tucker of Sebring and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Nocera of 287 S. Ellsworth Ave.

Mrs. David McSweeney of Sebring was at the organ and Mrs. Joseph Kuniewicz of Sebring sang "Queen of the Holy Rosary" and "On This Day" prior to the ceremony. "Ave Maria" was sung at the offertory and "Panis Angelicus" during communion.

As the bride placed her bouquet at the state of the Blessed Virgin following the ceremony, the soloist sang "Mother, At Your Feet Is Kneeling."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in a lace and tulle creation which featured a fitted lace bodice having a portrait neckline with brief sleeves and matching mitts.

The bouffant skirt of tulle over satin was accented with inserts of matching rosepoint lace and were formed into a court train.

Her pearl and sequin-dotted tiara held in place the silk fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white prayer book on which rested an orchid with lengthy streamers and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Ellen Tucker of Sebring was maid of honor for her sister, and she wore a Nile green gown with a crystaletta bodice, empire waistline, halter neckline with net over skirt and crystaletta bolero. A matching pancake hat of daisies completed her costume, and she carried a small cascade of white daisies with lily of the valley and streamers matching the gown.

Attendants were Miss Rita Tucker of Painesville, another sister of the bride, and Miss Marie Nocera of Salem, sister of the bridegroom, whose gowns of shaded mint green were similar to that of the maid of honor. They also carried small cascades of daisies combined with lily of the valley.

Dominic T. Armeni of Salem was the best man for the bridegroom, and ushers were Joseph Alessi Jr. and Anthony Colian Jr. of Salem.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tucker wore a beige lace dress with yellow accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Nocera was attired in a powder blue lace mesh dress with white and black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

A green and white color decor was carried out in the arrangements at the reception which was held at the American Slovak Hall Saturday evening when Karl Humphries was in charge of music.

The four-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Frank Tancer, Mrs. Paul Lee, Mrs. Rudy Muechelli, Miss Vera Tancer, Miss Shirley Cosgarea and Mrs. Edward Bush.

Carol and Patricia Lee registered the 300 guests who came from Salem, Sebring, Alliance, Canton, Mansfield, Youngstown, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

Members of the bridal party were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker at a breakfast which preceded the wedding ceremony. Twenty-five guests attended the wedding dinner held in the afternoon at the Virginian Restaurant in Alliance.

Following a rehearsal of the wedding, the bride and bridegroom presented strands of baby pearls to women of the wedding party, and cigarette lighters to men of the party.

When the couple left for a honeymoon trip, the bride wore a beige dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

A graduate of Sebring McKinley High School, the bride is employed in the office of the American Steel Foundries of Alliance. A graduate of Salem High School and a Korean war veteran, Mr. Nocera is a student at Ohio State University in Columbus.

Following their return from the wedding trip, the couple will reside in an apartment at 1459 E. State St.

Everyone would stand to gain from the new five-year, no-strike contract offered by the undersigned steel companies to the United Steelworkers of America — the employees themselves, the steel companies, the consumers of steel, the suppliers who sell to steel companies, and the nation as a whole.

The Union, in its collective bargaining, has always stressed the need for employee security — financial security against old age, sickness and layoffs. All of these are covered in the companies' proposals. But the steel companies go even further . . . they offer the workers security — for a five year period — against loss of pay in costly strikes. In the 1952 strike alone, steelworkers lost a staggering $450 million in wages — more than $700 apiece.

Would Give Security Against Higher Living Costs

The proposed agreement would give workers security against possible rising living costs by providing compensation for cost-of-living increases which may occur during the life of the contract.

The proposed agreement would provide workers with greatly increased financial security in case of layoffs. The companies would do this by supplementing state unemployment compensation for as much as a whole year.

The proposed contract would afford still further security through increased insurance, hospitalization and pensions.

And finally, it would provide a pay raise every year for five years.

The companies' offer covers wages increases and additional fringe benefits for workers over the next five years, amounting, by the end of that period, to a total increase of employment costs of 65 cents per hour worked. Of this sum, 17 2/3 cents would be incurred in the first year.

And the peace and stability produced by such a five-year agreement would be a boon to the entire country.

Families Would Be Free From Strike Worries

Steelworkers' families would no longer have to worry about the possibility of a costly strike every summer. Workers would feel freer to commit themselves to the purchase of many things for which they have to plan ahead and save money.

A new home, college for the youngsters, more new household appliances — all would be easier to buy when the steelworkers' families could be sure of no strikes and a bigger pay-check every year. And steelworkers, whose average weekly earnings exceed $100, are already among the highest paid industrial workers in America.

It took confidence in the future on the part of the steel companies to offer a pay raise every year for the next five years, together with other benefits. But the companies also would gain from a five-year agreement, just as the steelworkers and their families would.

Big Expansion Program Would Be Helped

The companies could proceed with even greater confidence with their expansion programs which will create thousands of new jobs. They would benefit by the many economies of steady production uninterrupted by strikes. With a five-year agreement, individual steel companies could better gear production to the normal demands of their customers.

There also would be substantial benefits from a five-year agreement for the steel industry's many thousands of customers and suppliers. The customers no longer would have to build up inventories every spring for fear of a strike. Customers and suppliers alike could plan ahead and provide jobs in their plants on the basis of steady, uninterrupted steel production.

Five years of peace in the steel industry would be a blessing to every American. Individuals, families, companies — big and little — could best plan and build and progress with confidence in an atmosphere of industrial peace.

Cleveland Defeats Nationals 7-2, For Sixth Straight Win

Indians Trail Yanks By 4½

Bob Lemon Posts 9th Season Win

CLEVELAND (AP)—Drop six games for their longest losing string of the season, then turn around and win six in a row for their best 1956 winning streak.

Slip four more games behind the New York Yankees in the space of six days, then gain four on the league-leaders in five days.

This is what the Cleveland Indians have done in the last two weeks.

The Tribe defeated the Washington Nationals 7-2 in 5½ innings Sunday. Rain halted the game and caused postponement of the second half of a scheduled double-header.

In Chicago the White Sox hung a double defeat on the Yankees, enabling the Indians to move to within 4½ games of the top. Only last Wednesday Cleveland trailed New York by 8½.

Until Friday night, when they open a five-game weekend series with Chicago, the Indians have only two games. They play Baltimore Tuesday night and Wednesday afternoon, with Early Wynn assigned to pitch Tuesday.

Bob Lemon allowed four Washington hits in posting his ninth victory against four losses. Three of these were in the sixth and for extra bases. Pete Runnels homered after Eddie Yost's double to account for both Washington runs.

Four Cleveland runs resulted from home runs by Earl Averill, Bob Avila and Al Rosen. Averill clouted his third and Avila his fifth over the left field fence in the fourth inning off starter and loser Bob Wiesler.

Rosen's home run, his eighth, was off Hal Griggs in the fifth and followed a ground-rule double which Al Smith bounced over the centerfield fence. It was Rosen's 1,000th major league hit, and he had made eight tries since Friday night to get it.

World Swim Record Holders Lose In Meet

HONOLULU (AP)—Two world record holding U.S. swimmers were beaten in their specialties Sunday by Hawaii splashes in the windup of a four-day meet.

George Breen lost the 1,500 meter freestyle to 17-year-old, George Onaka, a Honolulu schoolboy who is national champion. Breen, of Cortland, N.Y. State Teachers College, holds the world record in the event.

Robin Moore of Stanford, who holds the world 100 yard freestyle record, lost the 100 meter sprint by three feet to Bill Woolsey of Hawaii and Indiana in 57.3.

Onaka's time was 12:40. Woolsey earlier won the 50, 200, and 400 meter events.

Olympic champion Yoshio Oyakawa snapped his American record by five tenths of a second to win the 100 meter backstroke in 1:04.3.

Oyakawa opened an eight foot margin over Frank McKinney Jr., 17, of Indianapolis, with Al Wiggins of Ohio State third. McKinney had beaten Oyakawa at 200 meters.

Dan Towler Takes Ministerial Assignment

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Daniel (Deacon) Towler, the bulldozing fullback of the Los Angeles Rams, says "no more football for me" as he prepares to take his first ministerial assignment.

He steps out of the Rams lineup and into a Methodist church pulpit July 8.

The 228-pound Negro fullback received his appointment Sunday from Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy at the final session of the Southern California-Arizona annual conference in nearby Redlands.

The Lincoln Avenue Church has an interracial congregation, he said. Earlier Towler said he didn't want to serve in an all-Negro church. "I think that would be a dead end. I think I have something to contribute to interracial relations."

The soft-spoken Towler admitted his salary as pastor will not compare with his Rams' yearly earnings — estimated at $10,000. But he added, "My satisfaction will be a lot more."

Towler won the nickname of Deacon when he introduced prayer to the Rams' pre-game pep sessions. "I pray all the time during the game," he once said.

In 1951, he led the National League in rushing and from then through 1954 he never finished less than fourth among NFL rushers.

Redlegs Beat Dodgers Twice

On Way Up Again In National League Race

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs are on their way up the National League ladder again after taking three of their last four games from Brooklyn's Dodgers.

The tight fight for the league lead has had the Reds riding speedily up and down the standings this season, never tarrying in one spot for long.

In the next week, before returning home, the Redlegs meet two teams that have turned the early part of the season into a dizzying scramble—the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds hoisted themselves to second place Sunday with two power-packed victories over the world champion Dodgers, the first 10-6, the second 2-1.

One of the big reasons for the opening win was catcher Ed Bailey's three homers. They accounted for six runs and boosted him into the lead among league batsmen with a .347 average.

Bailey's big belts came in the first, fifth and seventh innings, putting the Reds ahead in the fifth with three runs and adding the final score in the seventh.

First-sacker Ted Kluszewski hit his 13th homer of the year in the first inning, scoring Johnny Temple, while the first Bailey four-base hit brought Frank Robinson home.

Johnny Klippstein and reliever Joe Black limited the Dodgers to nine hits in the first game while three Brooklyn hurlers were trying to hold back the Redleg hitting.

In the second game, homers by Redlegs Robinson and Bob Thurman and the three-hit pitching of Joe Nuxhall proved the margin of victory.

The Reds open a three-game series tonight with the Pirates, with Art Fowler slated to oppose Roy Face or Ronnie Kline.

Texas Given Slight Chance At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—A sturdy young tennis player from Houston, Tex., gets a chance to make a big name for himself this coming fortnight.

Many British experts think Sammy Giammalva, 21, who is unseeded, may be the player to give the United States a spot in the Wimbledon men's singles semi-finals. This year America has no outstanding male player and form points to Australian domination of the famed old tournament, which opened today.

Harold Palmer said in the London Evening Standard: "The best chance the United States has of getting a semi-finalist is probably through Sammy Giammalva. I should not be surprised if he knocked out Vic Seixas in the fourth round, but he is not likely to be sufficiently experienced to cope with Sven Davidson in the quarter finals."

Seixas of Philadelphia is seeded eighth and Davidson of Sweden is third-seeded.

Australians Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall—both 21—are the top seeds.

Born Mighty Upsets Fabius In Ohio Derby

CLEVELAND (AP)—Born Mighty, a chestnut colt owned by C. V. Whitney, became somewhat mightier over the weekend by upsetting famed Fabius in Ohio's oldest and richest race, the Ohio Derby.

Winner in only two of 16 previous starts, Born Mighty came up from eighth in a field of nine three-year-olds to pass Fabius in the stretch and win by a length Saturday at Thistledown.

A nose behind Fabius was Toby B, ridden by Bob Baird to show in the mile and one-eighth race. Time was 1:55 4-5, compared with the Derby record of 1:48 set three years ago.

Doby Paces Chicago's Victories Over Yanks

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP)—"Larry Doby, he's our guy," said a happy Chuck Comiskey after his Chicago White Sox had beaten the New York Yankees twice Sunday to sweep a four-game series.

Doby slammed two three run homers, one in the first inning of each game, as the Sox tagged the Yankees 14-2 and 6-3 to move within one game of the American League leaders.

Marlene Hagge Wins Ladies PGA Tourney

DETROIT (AP)—Pert, blonde Marlene Hagge today had the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship and $1,350 of new cash in her purse.

The 22-year-old from Asheville, N.C., defeated the 38-year-old veteran Patty Berg, of St. Andrews, Ill., on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff for the LPGA title at Forest Lake Country Club Sunday.

They ended the regulation 72 holes of medal play tied at 291. Mrs. Hagge got a par 5 on the first extra hole, sinking her 18-inch putt. Miss Berg missed from seven feet away.

And with that missed putt, Miss Berg failed again to win the only major title in women's golf that has eluded her over a 24-year career as a tournament golfer.

Tied going into the final 18-hole round, both winner and runnerup had 76's to force the playoff. Miss Berg lost two strokes on the last three holes. Playing behind Marlene, who matched par of 4-4-5, Patty shot 5-5-5.

Two World Titles To Be Put On Line

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press
The flyweight and bantamweight titles, only world championships held outside the United States, will be on the line this week in Uruguay and Italy.

Pascual Perez of Argentina will defend the flyweight crown (112 pounds) against Oscar Suarez of Havana in a Saturday match at Montevideo, Uruguay, the first world title match ever held in that city.

Robert Cohen of France risks his bantamweight title (118 pounds) Friday against Italy's deaf mute puncher, Mario D'Agata, in the first championship match at Rome since the days of Primo Carnera-Paulino Uzcudun in 1933.

Ludwig Lightburn, the British Honduras lightweight, returns to action tonight at St. Nicholas Arena in New York to face Jake Josato, a newcomer from Philadelphia.

Since losing to L. C. Morgan at Cleveland, March 28, Lightburn has been out of action. Josato has a string of six straight but has fought only once this year.

Charlie Coe Captures 53rd Trans-Mississippi

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Charlie Coe shot a fine game for 134 holes over the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course to win the 53rd Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship Sunday.

Coe got his fourth Trans-Mississippi Championship. His other trans titles were in 1947, 1949 and 1952. He also won the National Amateur in 1949.

Coe beat young Ronnie Wenzler of Memphis, Tenn., 11 and 9, in the scheduled 36-hole match. The slender, 32-year-old Oklahoma City oil man shot par golf for the first 18 holes and then was 3-under-par with a 32 on the nine holes of the afternoon round.

246 College Golfers Open Tournery Play

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The firing started at 7 a.m. (EDT) today as a field of 246 from 67 universities launched a week-long chase for the 59th National Intercollegiate Golf Championship.

Ohio State University's 7,120-yard par 72 layout was the battleground as Joe Campbell, stocky Purdue shotmaker, put his individual crown on the line and LSU went after its second straight team title.

Today's program called for the first 18 of the 36-hole qualifier which will send 64 into match play winding up Saturday. The four-man team laurels will be decided during the qualifier.

The West's 24-man team successfully defended its Best-Ball Championship Sunday, defeating the East 8 to 4. It was one of the most decisive wins in the event's history, and gave the Westerners their eighth conquest against 12 losses and two ties.

The driving contest honors went to the East, however, as Jim Mangum of LSU had the best three-shot average with 253 yards, and Notre Dame's Leo Linbeck poked the longest with a 266-yard effort. Campbell, tuning up for defense of the crown which no one has won twice in a row for a quarter century, teamed with Ohio State's Rick Jones for a 69, good enough to nose out two of the tourney favorites. Their 70-shooting foes were John Garrett of Rice, runner-up to Campbell last year at Knoxville, and Bobby Maxwell of North Texas State.

White Sox Defeat Yankees Twice; Braves Take Two From New York

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Any thoughts of a New York Yankee runaway in the American League have evaporated like their once handsome 6½-game bulge.

The White Sox drubbed Casey Stengel's defending champions 14-2 and 6-3 Sunday to sweep their four-game series. The White Sox zoomed to within one game of the Yankees.

Not since 1945, when the St. Louis Browns accomplished the feat, has any team swept a four-game set from the Yankees.

The Yankees now boast a slimmer first-place lead than their National League counterparts, the Milwaukee Braves, who boosted their margin to two games by knocking off the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 7-1, for their ninth and tenth straight triumphs. The Braves haven't tasted defeat since Fred Haney replaced Charlie Grimm at the helm a week ago.

Cincinnati's slugging Redlegs swept past Brooklyn into second place, winning two from the Dodgers 10-6 and 2-1. St. Louis and Philadelphia split, the Phillies winning 3-2, the Cardinals 8-4.

Pittsburgh ended an eight-game losing streak with an abbreviated five-inning, 1-0 victory over Chicago. The Cubs won the first game 5-3.

The Baltimore Orioles dealt Detroit a double 3-2 loss, stretching the Tigers' losing streak to eight in a row. Kansas City downed the Boston Red Sox 5-2 behind the ix-hit pitching of southpaw Alex Kellner. Cleveland defeated Washington 7-2.

Three-run homers by Larry Doby in the first inning of each game started the White Sox off. The Sox slaughtered Whitey Ford and two relievers for 18 hits in the opener, making it easy for Billy Pierce to breeze to his 11th triumph against two defeats.

Neither Ford nor Maury McDermott, second game starter, lasted through the first inning as the Sox rolled to their eighth success in a row. Gerry Staley, ex-Yankee, notched the nightcap win although he needed help from Dixie Howell.

Milwaukee got superb pitching from right-handers Lew Burdette and Gene Conley as they swept all four games from New York. Burdette yielded four hits in the opener. Conley was touched for four safeties until he gave way to Dave Jolly in the seventh inning of the second game. Danny O'Con-

HOGAN, THOMSON TIED
VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP)—Old master Ben Hogan and Peter Thomson of the bright young school went out today to unlock a tie in the individual championship of the Canada Cup Golf competition.

The 43-year-old Hogan and the 26-year-old Aussie took the lead in the 72-hole medal play tournament with 68's in the first round Sunday — a day that Wentworth Club officials will long remember.

The magic name of Hogan pulled in about 20,000 fans. All of them, or so it seemed, wanted to see the fabulous Texan at work. But as the golf-mad crowd surged and milled around Hogan and Sam Snead, Thomson and his partner, Norman Von Nida, worked their way into the lead of the team competition with a two-man score of 142.

nell drove in three runs with a home run in the first game and knocked in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the second.

The Redleg raiders pounded six homers against Dodger pitching, three by catcher Ed Bailey and solos by Ted Kluszewski, Frank Robinson and Bob Thurman. Joe Nuxhall won it.

Home runs by Al Rosen, Earl Averill and Bobby Avila paved the way for Cleveland's sixth straight triumph and Bob Lemon's ninth success against four losses.

Billy Loes and Ray Moore, a pair of ex-Dodgers, received credit for the Baltimore victories over Detroit. Home runs by Willie Miranda and Billy Gardner won the first game and Tito Francona's double chased in the winning run in the nightcap.

For Kansas City, Harry Simpson drove in three runs with a home run and triple and Vic Power batted in two with a single and home run to make it easy for Kellner.

Pinch hitter Frank Baumholtz's ninth-inning single scored Elmer Valo with the run that gave the Phillies a split in their twin bill against the Cardinals. Ken Boyer paced the Redbirds to their first game victory with a pair of home runs and a triple.

Rain, which came in the sixth inning with the Pirates ahead 1-0, helped Pittsburgh snap its eight-game losing streak. The victory went to Laurin Pepper, a bonus right-hander, his first in the majors. Spook Jacobs, who joined the Pirates Friday, singled in Eddie O'Brien with the only score off loser Sam Jones. Walt Moryn's seventh homer highlighted Chicago's two-run rally in the eighth of the opener that broke up a 3-3 deadlock.

Eljer Drops First Game Of Season

The Eljer Co. softball team suffered its first defeat of the year at New Castle, Pa., yesterday by the score of 5-1. All the New Castle runs came in fifth inning, the big blow being a three run homer by Hudson, the New Castle catcher.

Don Fife handled the hurling duties for Eljer and was relieved in the fifth by Hank Miller.

Harris May Be On Way Out As Tiger Manager

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP)—Stanley W. (Bucky) Harris may be on his way out as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

The club has nosedived from the first division to sixth place with an eight-game losing streak, longest of the season in the American League. Walter O. (Spoke) Briggs Jr., youthful president of the Tigers, has been openly critical of what he terms lack of hustle and spirit.

Briggs said in an interview that he would "make a change right now" if the baseball company's ownership were not in such a muddled state.

The Tigers dropped their seventh and eighth games Sunday by 3-2 scores to the Baltimore Orioles.

Harris, 59, has produced just three pennant winners in a major league managerial career dating back to 1924, when he was installed as the "boy manager" of the Washington Nationals.

Briggs hired Harris before the 1955 season after Bucky had been let out at Washington. The Tigers wound up in fifth place, 17 games behind the pennant-winning New York Yankees. Detroit has not finished in the first division since 1950, when Red Rolfe led the club to second place.

Some sports writers and broadcasters have accused both the Tigers' field management and front office of "complacency" and some of the players have complained of what they call Harris' lack of aggressiveness.

Though he is regarded as one of baseball's soundest tacticians, Harris is a gentleman who rarely becomes excited. He has a minimum of contact with his players and seldom calls a clubhouse meeting.

Said one veteran player: "If he'd just take us apart once in awhile, I think we'd all be better off and play better ball. I know I would."

Harris has a one-year contract. Even before Sunday's double setback, Briggs said he had been considering a change, but hesitated because the club is up for sale. About half a dozen groups have put up $250,000 each for a look at the books, and the final bids will be decided upon by July 2.

SUDDEN DEATH TOURNEY
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Daily News open golf tournament is a regular 72-hole match but in its two year history it has taken extra holes each time to determine a winner.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., had to go to the 74th hole Sunday before Mayer's 12-foot putt for a birdie three ended the match.

They halved the first hole of their sudden death playoff with par fours. While Mayer was on the green in two on the second extra hole, Holscher took four strokes to get on and finally went down in five.

White AMOCO-GAS Guarantees

no lead fouling

Lead fouling is a power-robbor caused by lead that's used in all gasolines but one—and that one is clear-white Amoco-Gas. Lead in a gasoline doesn't all burn. Crusty lead deposits form and foul up engine operation—and that's true of any leaded gasoline regardless of fancy color, fancy pump or fancy name. These deposits waste octane power. And no additive in the world can remove them, once they form.

Amoco-Gas alone can guarantee no lead fouling . . . it contains no lead, it can never leave a single lead deposit. Amoco is 100% POWER—with all the high octane that any car can use. You'll see the difference when you buy it—only Amoco-Gas is clear white. And you'll see the difference when you use it—watch that mileage record improve!

LOOK WHAT HAPPENS TO SPARK PLUGS?

LEAD FOULING

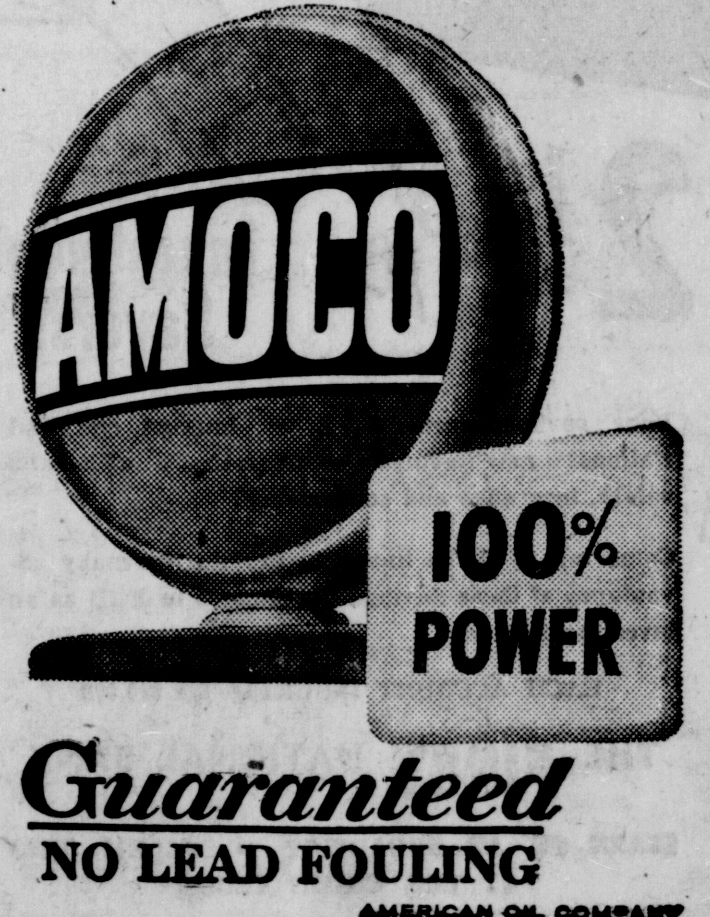

Firing tips "smothered" by lead deposits after 8723 miles of engine operation with a well-known brand of premium gasoline containing lead.

NO LEAD FOULING

Plug firing tips completely free from smothering lead deposits after 8764 miles of operation with white unleaded Amoco-Gas.

THESE UNRETouched PHOTOS are dramatic, visual proof that only unleaded Amoco-Gas will not—cannot—build up harmful metallic deposits on engine parts. Only Amoco-Gas can pass this no lead fouling test.

Annual Maintenance Of Your Fences Is A Must To Avoid Deterioration

When spring rains have subsided and dry weather prevails — that's the time to look to your garden or boundary fences for signs of winter damage, and to repair them.

Wind, rain and frost punish fences so severely that annual maintenance is a must. Neglect invites deterioration in the form of rust, rot and decay, which can only lead to eventual wholesale replacement of a fence line.

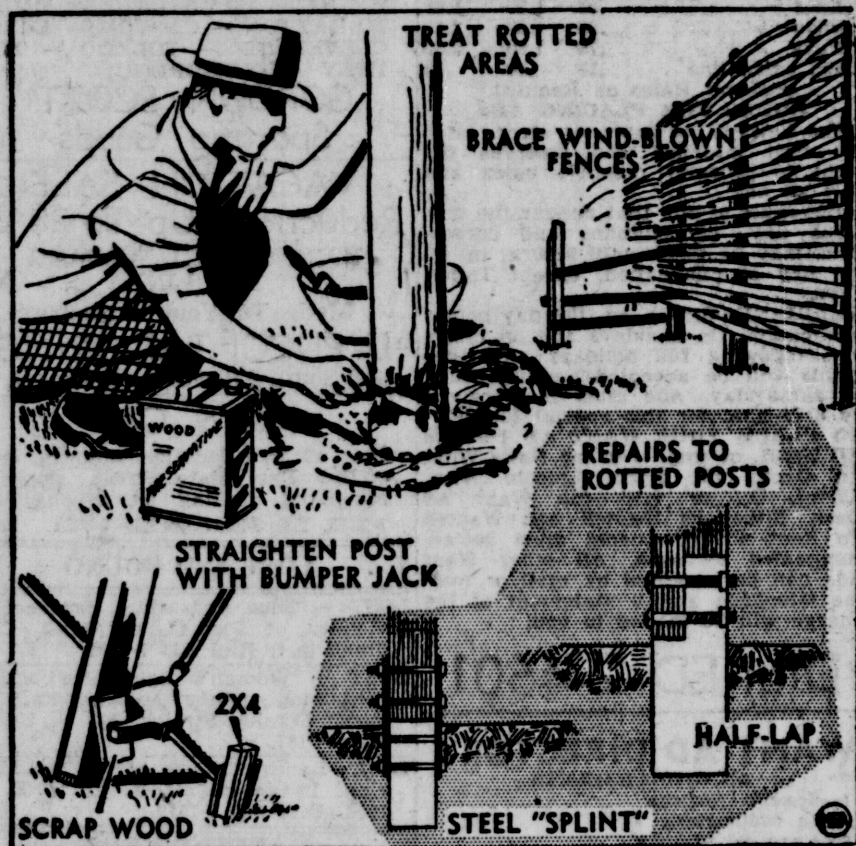

Protective coatings have to be renewed at regular intervals — paint, generally every third year; stain, as often as every other year.

Fence posts need to be aligned and straightened yearly. Frost action, wind pressure and unstable soil work in combination to loosen posts, causing them to lean or topple.

Often an automobile bumper jack can be employed to straighten a fence post which cannot be pulled erect by hand. Brace the jack base against a 2x4 stake driven into the ground near the post and place a piece of scrap wood between the jack's lifting flange and post. Then rack out the jack and use a spirit level to tell when the post is plumb. Tamp crushed stone and soil around its base.

Where unstable soil contributes to fence toppling it's a good idea to pour a concrete cellar around the post at ground level. Dig around the post to a depth of about 12 inches, making the hole larger at the bottom than at grade level. Coat the exposed lower portion of the post with roofing asphalt to a height about two inches above ground, then pour the concrete collar.

If wind pressure seems to be the chief offender, it may be necessary to brace the fence with boards or guy wires. One attractive way of bracing a wind-blown fence is to erect smaller fences at right angles, but attached to the main fence.

Nails holding rails or pickets are likely to work loose when fence posts wander out of position. Result: wood points open up and water trapped in them brings on rot. The open joints should be saturated with a wood preservative—Pen-tachlorophenol or zinc naphthenate. Then the nails should be redriven or, if rusted, replaced with nonrusting aluminum or galvanized nails. Rot is, of course, the greatest threat to a wooden fence. Dig a way soil at the ground line around posts and look for decay there. If minor, the decay can be halted—temporarily, at least — by clearing away the bad wood and soaking the affected part with a wood preservative.

On the other hand, if decay is severe you can either attempt to repair the post or get a new one. For a sound repair, cut off the post just above ground level and splice on a new base.

You can butt the parts together, end to end, and join them by bolting steel "splints" to opposite sides of the joint. The splints should be eight to 10-inch plates of 1/4-inch steel. Or you can lap cut the ends of both pieces and fasten them together with bolts through the half-lap joint.

Treat the new end of the post with wood preservative before resetting it. This is accomplished by letting the post stand 24 hours or longer in a bucket filled with preservative solution. The solution should completely cover the spliced joint.

Home Repair Dos, Don'ts

DO . . . if you have or make wooden sawhorses, sand the tops smooth, a precaution that will prevent work from being marred.

DO . . . select the center of your shop as the best location for your table saw, since it will enable large-sized lumber to be handled more easily.

DO . . . use some sort of turntable for painting and spraying constructed objects easily and neatly.

DO . . . be certain that all oil wiped from tools before use to prevent slipping, a frequent cause of accidents.

DO . . . use ordinary muffin tins as excellent containers for different-sized nails, screws and other small items.

DON'T . . . overlook the use of push sticks for table saws, jointers and similar power tools to keep your hands away from the cutting edges.

DON'T . . . forget that, while acoustical ceiling tile will help to keep noise inside a workshop, other measures (such as rubber pads under tool tables) will cut down the noise at the source.

DON'T . . . neglect to place the most frequently-used tools in the most accessible locations; the main tool panel, for instance, should be over or near the work bench.

DON'T . . . make the common mistake of buying more lumber than you need, a practice that encourages warpage and waste.

Septic Tanks Cause Trouble For Many

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER

Septic tanks are causing a lot of trouble for many homeowners who have bought or built houses beyond the reach of municipal sewer lines. An engineer for the U.S. Public Health Service recently stated that many new subdivisions "are going to be nothing but slums in a few years" because of improper septic tank installations.

Last winter in Milwaukee, a roving editor for House & Home, trade publication for the building industry, took photographs of ditches half-full of frozen sewage from septic tank vent pipes. The ditches were in a new community of 15,000 to 20,000 houses. "The homeowners," he reported, "in order to prevent sewage from backing up into their homes, had thoughtfully punched holes in the vent pipes."

Near Philadelphia, soap suds have appeared in suburban creek waters far from the points where the suds went underground.

The chief sanitary engineer for the Federal Housing Administration tells of having been assured by local FHA men that they had no septic tank troubles, yet when he toured new subdivisions he found many "tell-tale odors."

One official report sums up the problem: "Unless solutions are applied immediately to the sewage problem, the health of the people will be threatened."

Home building has been expanding faster into outlying areas than reliable experience with septic tanks could be boiled down into hard and fast rules. In most rural locations there are no zoning and sanitary regulations. In places where such laws exist, enforcement has lagged. One planning commissioner attributes the laxity to pressures from all interests connected with home building, as well as to the stampede of new home buyers.

Writing in the official bulletin of the Urban Land Institute, this commissioner says that around his Midwestern city "we have over 8,000 acres of septic tank subdivisions. It has been estimated that it will cost $2,000 per acre, or 16 million dollars, to correct the inevitable bad sanitary conditions . . . If we continue our present policies, in 25 years we will have 45,000 acres of septic tanks which to remedy will cost 90 million dollars. Moreover, this may be only a third of the cost, for the homeowners will have to pay a second time for the reconstruction of the roadways and their accessories, the cost of which will be assessed against their properties."

As an answer to sanitary waste disposal, the septic tank is on a patent medicine cure-all," says this observer. He contends that the minimum lot size for the use of a septic tank should be at least one acre.

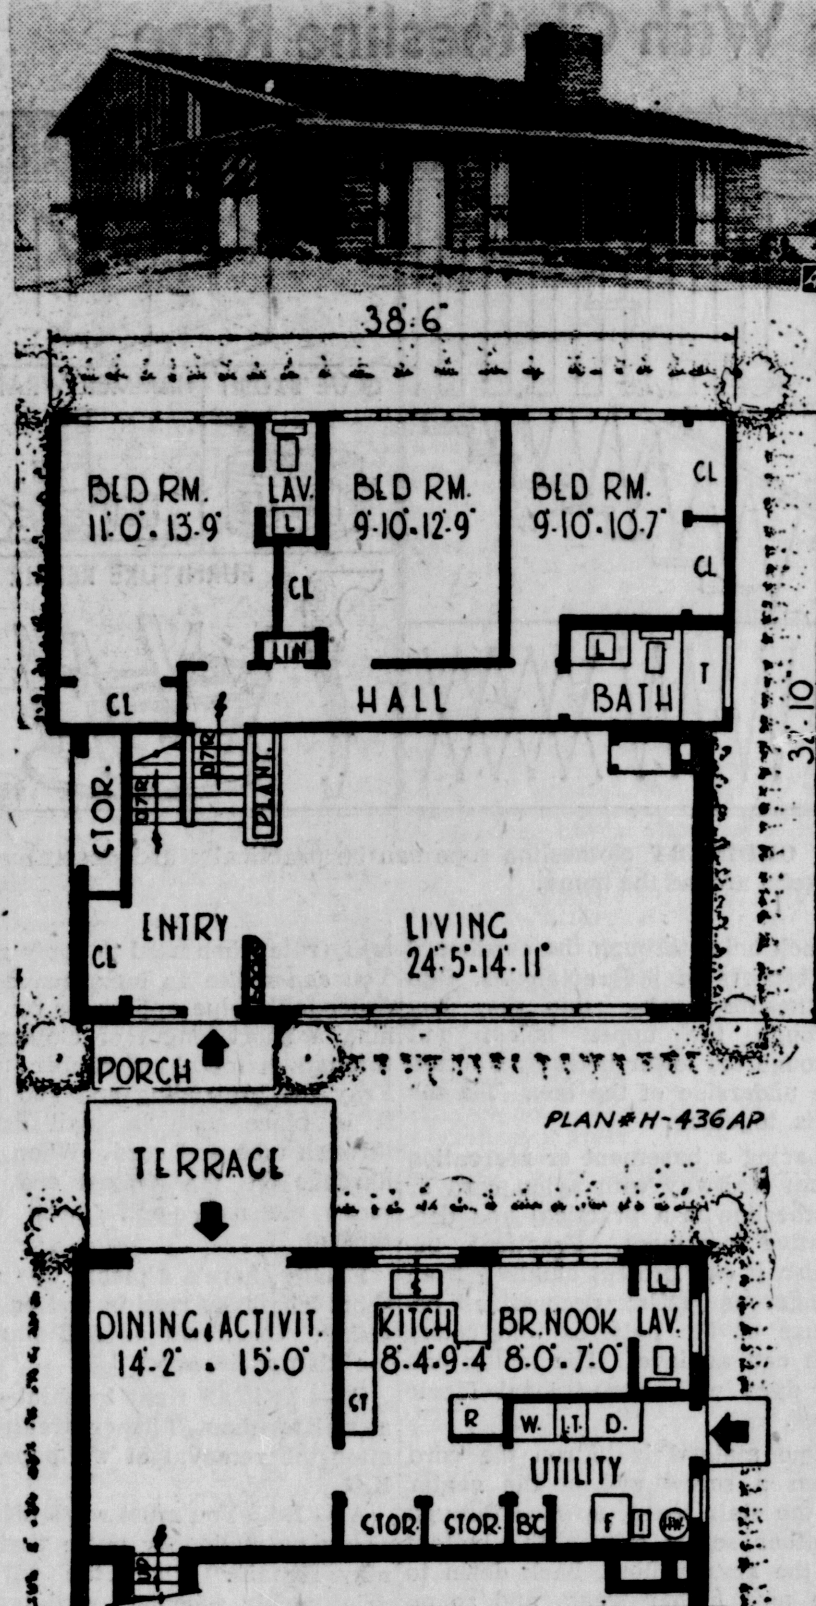

Less than half of all the septic tanks in five Midwestern states are working properly, says Daniel Evans, regional engineer for the U.S. Public Health Service. Reporting on his findings in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, he says:

"Where you have no supervisory control over the installation, I doubt if you will find 50 per cent of them operating satisfactorily."

It seems that Mother Earth can only drink up a certain amount. The first new homes erected in an area may actually use neighboring lots for absorption.

"Their septic tanks," says one analysis, "may serve well for 10 to 15 years. But when others come in, the soil get overloaded. In the first 18 months of septic tank operation in some areas, there is a big reduction in soil absorption capacity, so a new home buyer may get a horrifying surprise after one, two or three years."

Incidentally, the combination of septic tank fields with the use of washing machines and dishwashers has been killing trees in some places. Tree men blame this on detergents, which kill natural bacteria.

FOR SCENIC VIEWS, this front-to-back split-level house offers a lot of glamor. A big dining and activities room with sliding glass doors to a terrace is located on the lower level with kitchen, breakfast nook, lavatory, utility room and storage closets. The entire intermediary level faces the street and is devoted to a big living room with fireplace. Half a flight up are three bedrooms with window walls, a bathroom and a private lavatory. This is Plan H-436AP by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. Statistics: 1,228 sq. ft.; 18,163 cu. ft.

Get Out When Selling A House

When you are selling a house it is important to move and give possession to the buyer at the time of closing the deal. George F. Anderson, legal expert for the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards tells of a buyer and seller meeting to close a sale.

"You have moved out, haven't you?" the buyer asked.

"No, not yet, but we're prepared to get out in a few days," the seller replied.

"In that case," the buyer said, "there is no deal. The contract requires you to deliver possession when the deal is closed."

Where both parties want to go through with a deal, Anderson observes, there is never any difficulty. But when one party is looking for a loophole, we have trouble.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q — Please suggest a few evergreens tolerant of city conditions, especially partial shade.

A — Evergreens will not long survive where smoke and soot abound. Exhaust fumes from trucks and automobiles likewise are damaging to plant life. However, where the air is not contaminated you can depend upon the several varieties of Japanese yew, inkberry, Korean boxwood, mahonia and the spreading English yew.

Q — Why don't my sweet peppers produce peppers? My plants blossom well, but do not bear.

A — Sweet peppers are sandy loam soil crops and yield best on a well-drained soil that has been sweetened with lime. On heavier soils they invariably produce a luxuriant foliage with very little fruit. I believe that your soil should be lightened by working in a lot of sandy gravel and humus — plus lime at the rate of ten pounds per 100 square feet of garden area.

Q — What evergreens and flowers could be planted on the north side, which gets some sun?

A — You will get some results from perennials such as bleeding heart, Virginia bluebells, plantain lily, Japanese anemone, foxglove, lily-of-the-valley, primroses, banana berry; and the following annuals: tuberous begonias, torenia, nicotiana, browallia, pansies and balsam.

Try These Tricks With Clothesline Rope

Whatever you do, don't lose sleep over it. But consider this: if automatic clothes dryers eventually take the place of the good, old-fashioned clothesline, what'll you use for rope in emergencies?

Clothesline is the only kind of rope kept in abundant supply around the average house. Being a handy substitute for hemp, it's called upon to perform countless odd jobs outside the line of nominal duty.

How many times have you toted a load of do-it-yourself stuff home from the lumber yard and snatched the missus' clothesline to tie it down on top of the car?

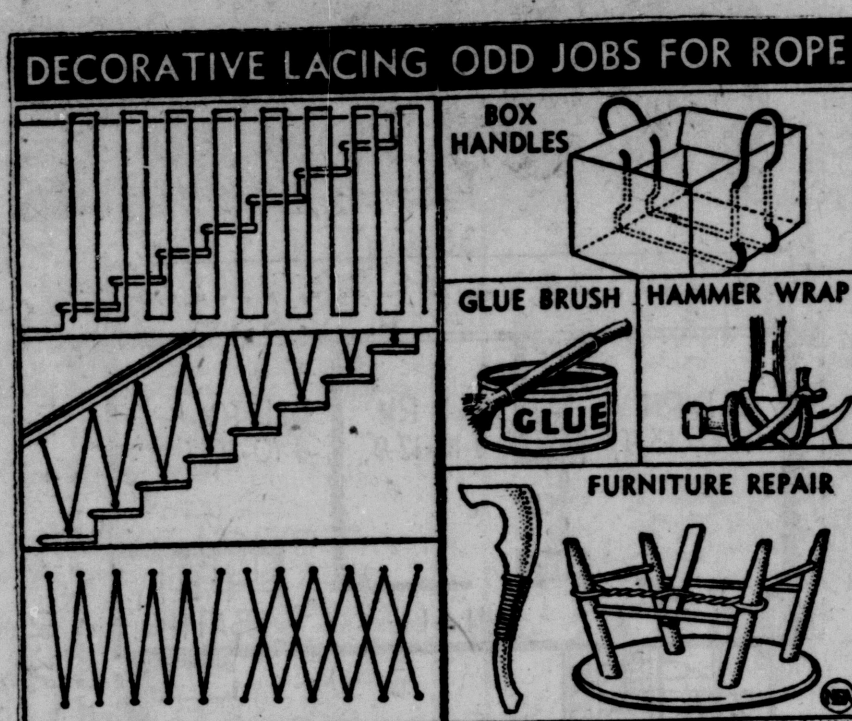

When Junior needs a tow rope for this sled, or a lasso for imaginary cowpoking, you go after the clothesline with a knife.

The outdoorsman who fails to take along a length of clothesline on a camping trip is either forgetful or shortsighted.

Think about it and you should recall any number of ways clothesline rope has been useful to you—exclusive of washdays. Puritan Cordage Mills of Louisville, Ky., did (thought about it, that is) and came up with some interestingly out-of-the-ordinary uses for their products.

For instance, they suggest using clothesline to strengthen a corrugated box for storing and carrying small items. Here's how:

Pencil a rectangular figure on one side of the box, and a similar rectangle on the opposite side.

ORDINARY clothesline rope can be practically and decoratively useful around the home.

Punch holes through the cardboard at corners of the rectangles. Run clothesline rope into the box through the upper holes, out through the lower holes and across the underside of the box. Tie the ends together.

Lacing a basement or recreation room stairway with nylon cord or clothesline is a practical and decorative treatment. Practical because it can protect children from dangerous falls; decorative because of the patterns and colors you can achieve. The lacing can be dyed with conventional fabric dyes.

One method is to run the cord from a screw eye in the center of the stair tread, upward through another screw eye in the bottom of the stair railing, back down to the next higher tread, and so on up the stairs.

Another way is to lace the rope from floor to ceiling beside the stairway, creating the effect of a divider. Here, you can use a straight up-and-down pattern, V pattern, or X pattern — again threading the line through screw eyes.

In the workshop, clothesline is as handy as anywhere, if not handier. Try these tricks sometime: When gluing split table of chair legs together, bind the joint tightly with cord and leave it bound until the glue has set firmly. The rope exerts uniform pressure on the break.

To protect a surface when pulling nails, wrap clothesline around the head of a claw hammer. Criss-cross it over the head and tie it. Paint brushes have a high mortality rate when used to apply glue.

You can make an inexpensive but expendable glue applicator by running a short length of clothesline through a metal or rubber tube. Fray the protruding end and hold it in place with a nail driven through tube and cord. When glue hardens on the frayed end, remove the nail, pull more cord through.

Finally, here's a picnic tip: soak short lengths of cord in melted paraffin. Use them as fire starters for damp firewood.

Q — Is it all right to paint over a wall without further treatment after the removal of wallpaper?—K.G.

A — No. You must wash off any sizing or wallpaper paste that may remain. When the surface dries, apply a coat of wall primer and let it dry before putting on final coating.

Q — How can I protect my new carpet from being soiled by the feet of my children?—M. J.

A — The best way to protect your new carpet is to keep your children off it until it has been treated with a protective finish. This can be done by applying a thin coat of a special finish to the carpet.

can operate from short, upim proved runways.

In all, the crowd of more than 200,000 at Tushino Airport saw about 120 fighters, 40 helicopter transports and only 16 bombers fly over. Last year's show featured 73 bombers.

Western experts said none of the new aircraft was unexpected. They added that the show included nothing startlingly new.

At a garden party at the Soviet Army Club after the show, Soviet leaders proposed repeated toasts to disarmament and world friendship. When his turn to speak came, Twining said forthrightly but politely:

"We know what war means and my country has proved through the years we are a peaceful people. We always got into wars very late."

"After the last war we disarmed completely. That, gentlemen, is disarmament. We had to build up our forces again at Korea—and we are not going to reduce them again until we are sure of worldwide arms controls."

He was applauded by diplomats and air force delegations of Britain, France and the United States.

During the entertainment, Khrushchev said to Twining, "You probably are very interested in our rockets and ballistics missiles. We will show you all you want to see. You would like to see them, wouldn't you?"

Twining nodded.

Want To See U. S. Planes

Khrushchev slapped his knee and roared, "Well, we want to see yours. Show us your planes and we'll show you our ballistics weapons."

The U.S. general replied, "You can read all about ours in our journals."

"That's old stuff," the Communist boss retorted. "We can show you old stuff too. The question is who has the better missiles, you or we. . . . But we won't show them to you today. Today is too early. We'll do it at some future date. Meanwhile, you keep yours and we'll keep ours. We'll show you what competition is."

At another point, Khrushchev said:

"... It would be silly to ask who is first in the (armaments) race. Sometimes, in certain fields, the United States has the lead, and sometimes the Soviet Union. It keeps changing. Why? Because all developments in research and science are known both to you and to us."

Defense Party Loses Seats

The National Defense party, which is anti-Communist, but made U.S. withdrawal its sole election appeal, apparently had lost the only two seats it held in the old Althing.

Domestic issues were overshadowed in the voting by the intense interest in the demands of the four opposition parties for withdrawal of the 5,000 to 6,000 U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy men manning the Keflavik base and radar listening posts linking North American and European defense networks.

job. I know, I've been through it." Asked what he thought was the solution, he replied:

"Young men. We must get young men, young men who've been trained for the job. That's the only way."

Truman was host today to Hugh Gaitskill and eight other members of the British Labor party. They ate lunch at a private room at Truman's hotel.

Referring to his meeting with Sir Winston Churchill Sunday, Truman said:

"Oh, we won the war all over again, took credit for doing it and like two old men had a good time reminiscing."

Earlier, he told newsmen the 81-year-old Churchill was "keen as a blar."

Storms Strike District Twice

Two Campbell Men Drowned In Flood

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Sharp storms, scudding winds and sudden torrents of water played havoc Saturday night and again Sunday in half a dozen communities of northern Ohio.

Deaths of at least four persons were attributed to the storms.

Two lives were claimed near here.

In suburban Campbell, Steve Paulin, 38, and his friend, Boris Moisoff, 25, rushed from a tavern Saturday night when they saw Paulin's parked auto sliding down 12th St., a steep incline, as a sudden avalanche of water struck it.

Both were knocked off their feet and pinned under the car. Two other men who tried to rescue them had to be pulled out of the water by a human chain. Paulin and Moisoff both were drowned.

In Berea, a Cleveland suburb, a Saturday night deluge of more than an inch flooded many basements. Elmer T. Henson, 24, helping a friend pump water out of a basement, was electrocuted when he touched an electric motor.

The fourth storm-linked death occurred Sunday when 16-year-old Judy Jerina of Niles was struck by lightning while running to a car on Ohio 46, three miles south of the Trumbull County town of Cortland.

In Elyria, about one-third of the city's lights went out Saturday night because of high winds that tore down electric lines. Sunday's wind and rain storms curtailed baseball games, yacht races, horse shows, street carnivals and picnics in the Cleveland area, where another half-inch of rain was reported. The weather bureau in Cleveland said the wind reached gusts up to 50 m.p.h.

Coast Guard lifeboat stations on Lake Erie had to bring in several Sunday boaters who waited too long to head for shelter, but no casualties were reported.

In Green Springs, south of Fremont, electric service to an area inhabited by about 1,200 persons was cut for three hours. A falling tree temporarily blocked a railroad track and a road at the point where Ohio 19 crosses the Big Four Railroad.

In Lake County, Sunday's rain amounted to .58 inch, and was accompanied by enough wind to knock down numerous trees. Some spots in the county found their telephone and light service interrupted.

3,200 Persons Attend Annual Potters Picnic

District potters will go back to their benches today with pleasant memories of their 28th annual picnic and outing, which drew a near record crowd of 3,200 to Meyers Lake Park at Canton Saturday.

Overcast skies in the morning and part of the afternoon probably cut into the attendance, but the crowd was still one of the largest ever to attend the traditional outing. The all time record of 3,500 was set in 1955.

Six district youngsters, including a set of twins, won prizes in the annual morning baby show and the afternoon junior bathing beauty contest.

The baby show attracted a field of nearly 300. Each first place winner received a $50 savings bond in the contests' three divisions, while the second and third place winners received large baby dolls. All other entries were given baby sets.

Nearly 400 were entered in the bathing beauty contest, with the winners receiving $50 savings bonds and the second and third winners getting $25 savings bonds and $10 in savings stamps, respectively.

For the first time in four years, the East Liverpool Merchants lost the mythical "World Championship" of the ceramics industry, being beaten 6-5 by the Salem City team. The East Liverpool team won permanent possession of the IBOP trophy last year when they won their third straight championship.

terview to news stories quoting Wilson as saying both Democratic and Republican efforts to increase the Air Force funds were "phony."

Wilson since has backed away from that statement, saying he was "partly" misquoted and misunderstood. He said he did not mean to insult any senator, and had meant the word "phony" to refer to a part of a reporter's question which he said implied that he did not have to concern himself with defense expenditures.
